News of Interest to All

According to Postmaster George P. Lovejoy, Petaluma, the Petaluma postoffice is in the $75,000 class, as a gain of more than $5,000 was made over 1925 receipts this year.

Oil production in the San Joaquin Valley for November was 232,243 barrels less than for October, according to figures just compiled by the American Petroleum Institute, Pacific Coast office.

With what is believed the largest crowd on record, New Year's day was celebrated at Truckee with the annual winter snow sports. The day was fair, clear and crisp enough to add zest to the sport.

Plans have been approved for the $350,000 three-story building that is to be constructed in Fresno by the Elks. The building is to be modern in every respect with a cooling system, swimming pool and gymnasium.

The total of marriage licenses issued by County Clerk Albert Brown in Sutter county was seventy-four. The last couple to secure the permit was Charles L. Webb, 60, of Yuba City and Sarah Webb, 60, of Meridian.

Charlie Sing, Sutter Creek, for fifty-five years one of the best known figures in Amador county, is dead at the age of seventy-five. "Charlie" as he was familiarly known to a host of friends operated a restaurant in Sutter Creek. No hungry man ever turned away from his door even though he could not pay for his meals. Unsolicited he often sent food to the sick and needy.

San Francisco banks marked the first business day of the new year with clearings which amounted to $50,000,000 the second highest figure in the history of the city. This amount exceeds the figure for the corresponding day in 1926, when $38,000,000 was cleared. The city's record day of banking, as reflected by the clearings, was February 5, 1926, when the total reached $51,500,000.

Resignation of C. L. McLane, president of the Fresno State Teachers College to take effect June 30, 1927, was announced recently by Will C. Wood, State superintendent of public instruction. McLane, first president of the institution, has served fifteen years. Immediately following the time his resignation takes effect, F. C. Thomas, vice-president of the college, will be elevated to the status of president, Wood announced.

Oakland public school pupils who returned to their classes after a holiday recess of three weeks, occupied during the past year new buildings costing $1,280,000 according to the annual report of the school department business manager, Don Rice. In the coming year contracts for an additional $1,812,342 of new structures already let will be completed. Plans for a number of other buildings provided by the 1924 bond issue are being drawn.

The cities of San Francisco and San Jose were given special awards at the Tournament of Roses and Pasadena for the beautiful floral floats they entered in the great floral pageant. San Jose's entry in Class A, at the head of the second division of the parade, was based on the song theme "La Fiesta de las Rosas." The float had a fruit tree in full bloom at each of its four corners and was laden with fruits and flowers of Santa Clara valley.

The State Railroad Commission reorganized under a new policy suggested by President Harley W. Brundage, whereby the presidency will be rotated among members of the commission in the order of their seniority. Ezr W. DeCoto is the new president. He was appointed to the commission in January, 1925. For six years prior to that he had been district attorney of Alameda county. The new plan follows the policy in effect in the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Southern California building, led by Los Angeles with a total of $123,006,215, closed the year 1926 with a valuation of $241,394,752, according to a compilation of data from fifty-nine cities. Thirty-four Southland communities showed building gains for 1926 over 1925 while the strong tone evidenced in the year-end construction activity was further stressed by the reports of twenty-eight of the communities to the effect that their December building last year was greater than that of 1925.

Chairman Harvey M. Toy of the state highway commission will accompany Governor Fritsd W. Richardson on the latter's globe trotting tour next year. The governor announced that Toy's decision to quit the commission and go roving with him around the world was "the best Christmas present I could have wished for." Toy will sail from New York on the steamship California and will be joined by the governor's party at San Pedro, February 4th.

TO ADVERTISE PRUNES OVER UNITED STATES

What is believed to be one of the biggest selling projects ever put behind a food product is being launched this month by the California Prune Growers in the form of a nation wide contest.

Approximately $200,000 has been set aside by the growers to put prunes over in a big way in the United States. The campaign is based on a $10,000 prize contest in which every man, woman and child is eligible to enter.

For instance, housewives and consumers will receive fifty-eight prizes ranging from $20.00 to $1,500 for letters the subject of which is "How I Serve Prunes."

Teachers and dieticians will write about "Why Prunes Should Be in the Ideal Diet" and for this class seventeen prizes ranging from $25.00 to $200 have been set aside.

High school girls will write on "Why I Eat Prunes" and seventeen prizes ranging from $25.00 to $200 will be awarded in this class.

Chefs of restaurants and hotels have been invited to write on the subject "How I Serve Prunes on the Menu." Seventeen prizes have also been set aside for this group ranging from $25. to $200.

The men behind the grocery counter have not been overlooked and grocers and retail salesmen will compete for the thirty-two prizes ranging from $25. to $200 on the subject "How I Sell Prunes."

Big space is being used in metropolitan newspapers and national magazines to put this contest over.

It is believed that the prizes will draw responses from practically every town in America.

Throughout all of the advertising copy California Prunes are heavily exploited and in detail the great food value attached to them is given.

On Tuesday, January 11, the California Society for Crippled Children held their first annual meeting and conference, at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco. Fifteen state-wide organizations including fraternal societies and service clubs, were represented. The purpose of the meeting was to elect officers and devise plans for the securing of state appropriations for the care and relief of crippled children. The general purpose of the society is to "bring the greatest good to the greatest number of crippled children" in California. It does not intend to build any institutions or to boost any single institution or hospital. It does not intend to be or become a "child caring" organization. Its intention is to bring into bold relief the size and importance of the problem of the crippled child in California and to devise means and appropriations for the assuming of the responsibility of the proper care, relief and education of California's Crippled Children. The motto of the society is "California Cares."

Recommendations that the state of California refuse to consider the removal of the Ventura school for girls are contained in a report by Lloyd R. Root, state mineralogist to the state board of control, made public recently. Recent negotiations between various oil companies and the state board of control for the purchase of 126 acres of land, upon which the Ventura school is located, resulted in a conference November 12, 1926, at which it was decided to request a report from the state mineralogist concerning various questions involved.

Plans are being prepared by an architect for a five-story and basement steel-frame, concrete, brick and tile department store building, theater and three-story store building for Stockton. The theater will have a seating capacity of 2,400. The cost of the improvements will be about $600,000.

The agency of the Southern Pacific company at Dutch Flat, famed city of the gold days, has closed until May 1, when it will be opened as a summer office. A caretaker has been put in charge to look after the fires and lights. This is the first time since 1866 that the office has been without an agent.

Changing her plea from not guilty on a charge of possessing a liquor still, Mrs. M. Porter, Red Bluff, was sentenced to serve 500 days in the county jail. She has the distinction of being Tehama county's first woman bootlegger to get a jail term.

BIG MEETING OF COMMERCE MEN IN SAN JOSE

All the Secretaries and officials of the Chambers of Commerce of the State of California will meet at San Jose in the Convention Hall of San Jose Chamber of Commerce January 13, 14 and 15.

When the last annual convention was held at San Diego, Wendell C. Thomas, President of Santa Clara County Consolidated and Manager of the San Jose Chamber, worked enthusiastically toward the end that the 1927 Convention might be held in Santa Clara Valley. Through the co-operation of telegrams from Consolidated, from each community in the valley, various public officials, all the service clubs, and many other organizations, the convention was secured.

All those interested in Chamber of Commerce or civic work have been invited to attend any of the sessions in which they may be interested. Such speakers as W. H. Miller of Oakland, Robert Newton Lynch and Colonel Charles Simmons of San Francisco, Ralph Merritt of Fresno, and Charles P. Bayer of Los Angeles will talk on subjects pertaining to community progress.

Most of the delegates will be housed in the New Hotel Sainte Claire and business sessions will be held at the Chamber of Commerce. A trip to Lick Observatory on Thursday and to the Mystery House on Friday, as well as banquets and luncheons will comprise the entertainment program planned by the San Jose organization.

CONG. A. M. FREE ON SHIP BOARD

Following out the custom which he inaugurated sometime ago of inviting Members of Congress to have breakfast with him to discuss matters of legislative importance, President Coolidge recently entertained several members of the Senate and House of Representatives at breakfast in the White House. Among the guests was Congressman A. M. Free of this District. While Mr. Free did not feel at liberty to say just what matters were discussed, yet it is understood that the future of the merchant marine of the United States was given consideration.

Mr. Free occupies a prominent place on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee of the House of Representatives and has been bending his efforts toward the maintenance of the American flag on the ocean.

Recently the Appropriations Committee failed to appropriate the money for the carrying of United States mails in United States ships. This would seriously affect some of the American lines going to foreign countries, for without these mail contracts the lines could probably not continue in operation. Mr. Free has been leading the fight to have these mail contracts awarded to American ships.

Club Plans Building

Moreland Good Will Club held its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Tilly Johnson, Jan. 5th. There was a good attendance and two visitors were gladly welcomed.

Reports from all committees were given. Two of the section committee gave most encouraging reports of sums received toward building. The remaining two hope to bring their reports into line later in year.

Mrs. Zettle gave a paper upon Past Renaissance Architecture. The social hour followed during which time light refreshments were served.

Adjourned to meet, January 19, with Mrs. George Smith on Saratoga Avenue.

"Save the surface and you save all" doesn't apply to political whitewash.

The fellow who stays away from the polls and then pokes fun at Congress is pointing his finger at his own nose.

BON VOYAGE PARTY MR. AND MRS. AINSLEY

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ainsley were guests of honor last Friday evening at a very delightful farewell party.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Archibald and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hyde were hosts, and the community hall, which had been attractively arranged with additional furniture and bowls of red berries and greenery was a scene of gaiety.

Auction bridge furnished diversion for part of evening. Mrs. Leigh Saunders and Herold Morton carrying off the high scores.

After the company had all been provided with crepe paper hats, serpentine was passed and the hall was soon a medley of streamers.

Refreshments were served at the small tables, attractive bouquiers of toy on berries and Oregon grape being arranged in a circular centerpiece.

The remainder of the hours until midnight were spent in jovial singing, conversation and expressions of good will and farewells. Mr. and Mrs. Ainsley were presented with a couple of books for travel companions and a budget of "voyage letters" to be read upon the briny deep.

Mr. and Mrs. Ainsley started Wednesday evening on the transcontinental end of their long journey.

MELVIN WYCOFF DIES

Melvin E. Wycoff died at the hospital Wednesday night as the result of being injured by an auto.

He was standing in a shallow manhole at Santa Clara and Vine Street while on duty for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, man standing up and another A barricade was up and another man standing guard. An autoist not watching where he was driving crashed into the barricade and dragged it across Wycoff who sustained four broken ribs and cuts on the face and head. He was rushed to the hospital by his crew mates and gained consciousness occasionally for short periods until his death.

The sincere sympathy of many friends are extended Mrs. Minnie Yeager Wycoff, the bride of but three months and relations who are overcome with the shock and grief.

Mrs. Wycoff is a Campbell girl and was rejoicing over their new home now being built on Morepark Avenue north of here. As we go to press funeral arrangements are not available.

The best foreign policy is one of insurance from future wars.

The man proposes the marriage, but doesn't always have his choice as to the divorce.

OLD SETTLER DAY COMMITTEES NAMED

Santa Clara County Old Settlers Day will be celebrated at Campbell, February 22, and plans are under way to make this first county celebration of the season an enjoyable affair for old and young.

C. W. Shumway president of the Chamber of Commerce that takes charge of the celebration has appointed the committees having the various matters in hand.

GRANGE FETES NEW MEMBERS

The Grange held a banquet for its new members on Tuesday evening at 6:30 with quite a large number in attendance and the usual good time was enjoyed.

The drill team put the new members through the third and fourth degrees in the most perfect manner, bringing applause from all.

The granges of the county are invited to meet with Pomona grange at Palo Alto for the installation of the new officers Saturday, January 15, at 1:30 p. m. Dinner will be served at 6:30. Mr. Mason E. Knapp, editor of the Pacific Grower Home and Garden magazine was voted a member of the Orchard City grange.

Arrangements are being made for an illustrated lecture on birds at the grammar school auditorium by S. S. Stansell of Morgan Hill on Friday evening, Jan. 28. This is to be free to the grammar school children, but a small charge will be made for adults. Some comic pictures will also be thrown on the screen by way of diversion.

The subjects of assessments and taxation were discussed by Mr. Hedegard and others, and were referred to committees for further study.

Sunnyvale grange has invited Orchard City grange drill team to put on the work of the third and fourth degrees for them on Wednesday evening, Jan. 22. All grange members are invited to meet with them.

Coyote grange announces a dance also for Jan. 22 and invites other granges to meet with them. The granges of the county seem to start the new year with unusual prosperity.

An old-timer: One who can remember when the school children spit on their states.

Deploping the fast extinction of the elk and the buffalo, we still have with us the dark horse.

Mr. Coolidge should find consolation in the fact that there are thousands of holders also uncertain about 1928.

CHAMBER OF COM. PLANS 1927 BIG YEAR

The New Year meeting of Campbell Chamber of Commerce was called to order by President Shumway Monday evening at Community Hall. Mrs. M. Lanphear of the membership committee reported that the new membership lists were being made up and already almost a score of new members were signed up.

J. F. Wehmeyer reported that the public improvement committee had planted all the available trees in the new creek plot, 38 eucalyptus, 28 walnut and 6 acacias and there was yet space for 10 more which will be planted as soon as secured.

A vote of thanks was given this committee for its good work on this job.

The trees on the Campbell Avenue extension west have been removed and the grading and graveling has already been granted by the County "Dads." Work will probably be begun as soon as the spring rains are over.

Pres. Shumway stated that nothing definite had been accomplished regarding the sign on the east theater wall.

The County Consolidated is supporting the sanitary district project and discussed the matter at its meeting last week. Santa Clara and Los Gatos are both in serious need of some such sewage system and this community would do well to get on the band wagon. On motion a special committee was appointed to support Dr. W. I. Merrill, at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors Monday when this matter will be up for hearing.

On the committee are Dr. Merrill, C. H. Whitman, J. F. Wehmeyer, R. Woelfel and R. H. Hyde.

Several reported the collection of garbage as well begun and on motion a vote of thanks was given supervisor McKinnon for granting the use of the creek bed for its disposal and burial.

Believing that a closer co-operation might be worked out between the Chamber and rural district a special agricultural committee was appointed by the chair. They are: W. R. Coupland, Louis Shelley, S. B. Smith, Geo. W. Burrow and E. W. Ohlen.

It was suggested that a special meeting be called for Tuesday evening next. G. E. Farley brought the good news that the Grammar P. T. A. would furnish the annual banquet for the Chamber this (Friday) evening.

T. A. Cutting stated that the program was being framed for the occasion. Dr. A. E. Osborn of Los Gatos will be the speaker of the hour.

CLUB PARTY JAN. 29

Monday, Jan. 17, Miss Emily Cohen will speak at the Country Woman's Club on "International Relations." It will be an open meeting and all who are interested are invited to attend.

Committees are busy making plans for the card party to be held Saturday, Jan. 29th, at the community Hall under the auspices of the Country Woman's Club.

A short program and refreshments will be part of the evening's entertainment.

Reserve the date for a good time and help the club treasury. They hope to be able to again reduce the building debt.

Mrs. H. C. Smith has been appointed by the president to re-estimated News" from members of the Country Woman's Club. If there are any outside the club who are interested in the work of women's clubs and their accomplishments, this state, and would like a copy of the magazine their subscription will be received. The price is 50 cents a year.

WATER CO. BUILDS PRETTY FOUNTAIN ON L. G. HIGHWAY

The new Cambrian reservoir fountain of the San Jose Water Company along the Los Gatos-San Jose highway is fast being completed.

The new scenic spot is the fountain situated on the southeastern corner of the high Cambrian reservoir of the San Jose Water Works.

This fountain, according to Joseph R. Ryland, water works president was erected for the combined purpose of purifying water piped from the Santa Cruz mountains and at the same time adding an attractive appearance to the cement walls of the reservoir.

Although to all outward appearances the fountain is complete, President Ryland claims there is still about a month or two of work to be finished on its interior.

Work on the fountain started several months past following the water works acceptance of its design by Gardner Bailey of San Francisco.

The marble of which the fountain is constructed was brought from the state of Vermont by the Western Granite and Marble company.

The work of constructing the huge edifice was accomplished entirely by employees of the water works.

CHURCH NOTICE

How to Keep "Kids" Off Street

When the Dadson family out in Vancouver, B. C., bought two cornets and a trombone for their three children—the eldest of whom was then but six—the neighbors viewed the musical project with decided skepticism.

"Father" Dadson, however, had ideas of his own, and the doubts of the neighbors worried him not one iota. He believed that children "run the streets" because there is nothing in the average home to hold their interest. He believed that with a definite something in the home it would be the home, and not the streets, that would see the most of his children. Further, he believed that music could supply that definite something. At least it was worth a trial.

The above picture, from the Conn Music Center files, goes far toward telling the rest of the story of this father's experiment.

His three children—Billy is now eight, Hector is six and Mona is four—are now real musicians. Recently they tried their instruments on a nationally known vaudeville circuit, "just to see what it was like." Critics pronounced their act the feature of the bill. "Father" Dadson, however, is more interested in the fact that the act is the feature of the home.

THE BUSINESS OF COOPERATION

The other day a man said (not a Campbell man) that the people had called him for this and that, and he had refused to give of his time and money, or work on committees for community welfare, charities and public undertakings. His excuse was that he was conducting his business at low prices, and he thought that was enough to do. Is he right or wrong?

This question has but one answer: he is wrong. No man's business or judgment is sufficient unto itself. Human needs can not be met, nor can community welfare be maintained by the independent judgment of any one man. Conducting a business, howsoever legitimate, at low prices is good so far as it goes. But no man can isolate himself in his own estimation of duty and expect to grow; because if they all took that attitude the community about them would not grow.

With all its age, the world is yet new. Social, moral and economic conditions in community, state and nation must be met. Government can not serve all of our needs. The tax dollar doesn't run the whole household. In fact, the business of government is merely to protect us in serving our own needs. To fulfill the destinies of the community we must have public-spirited citizens, rich and poor, old and young, in all levels of life, who are willing to do more than "conduct their own business at low prices." They should be willing to help financially and personally to carry on the ideals of education, charity, morals, religion, art, culture and recreation. These things require organization, time, money, management, co-operation and man-and-woman-power.

If the community is to "get up and go," we've got to "go up and get"—out of our stores, up from our desks, away from our menial tasks,—devoting at least a part of our time to pushing, pulling and boosting together. Cooperation is a business itself.

NOW THEY'LL KNOW

It is reported that at the University of Idaho college girls are paying their own way at theaters, soda fountains, and other places of amusement, though accompanied by the customary college sheik. This may teach the girls the value of a dollar, which is one thing they haven't heretofore learned at college.

The total campaign expenditure of a Laredo (Texas) district attorney was 10 cents, as reported to the Secretary of State. And this probably was spent for one good 5-cent cigar.

A soft answer softeneth a hard nose.

"WATCH YOUR STEP"

This will have to be the watchword of the State Department in the Nicaraguan affair; for the little things sometimes stir up big things between nations. Level-headedness, regard for the rights of other nations, stern measures to protect life and property, and fully premeditated diplomatic dealings,—these only will insure peace in the existing situation.

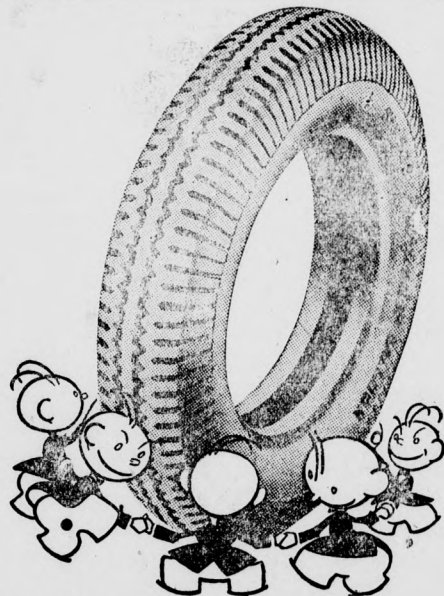

The Dollar Bill

The wide popularity and increasing usefulness of dollar bills made it necessary last year for the government to issue about four hundred and fifty million of them—seven times as many as in 1900. The constant handling of the paper has reduced the average life of the bill to eight months.

In considering the many uses of dollar bills, it should not be forgotten that one of them is required to open a Savings Account in the American Trust Company, where it will earn four per cent interest, compounded semi-annually.

The total of $1,820,522 spent for building improvements in 1926 brings Palo Alto's aggregate of post-war construction expenditures up to $9,600,855. The 1925 total is exceeded only by the record of 1925, when building permits were issued for a total of $2,150,798. The number of residences in Palo Alto has increased from 1,473 counted during the 1920 census, to an estimated total of 3,710 today. There were 217 homes built there in 1926.

State forestry officials announced recently that a 40-acre grove of redwoods in the Humboldt State Redwood Park will be known henceforth as the Solon H. Town Tales Tersely Told

The W. C. T. U. will meet in the parlors of the Methodist church Wednesday, January 19, at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. Robert Whitaker of Saratoga will occupy the pulpit in the Congregational church on Sunday morning next, at 11 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Bibb returned Monday from Lakeside where they went to spend the holiday season with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bibb.

The C. E. DeSelle house is quarantined for scarlet fever, three of the boys being sick. Mr. DeSelle, who is "at liberty" reported Wednesday that they were all improving.

Mrs. L. E. Eddleman and Mrs. Gayno Eddleman witnessed "The Miracle" last week. Among those who planned to attend this week were Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Cramer and Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Saunders.

ALUMNI WIN AGAIN

After a three week lay off, the Campbell Alumni came back strong last Saturday night and defeated the fast San Francisco Cardinals.

The Alumni displayed some very fast pass work and were hitting the basket with more regularity than in several previous games.

Eddleman was high point man with 20 points while Nelson and Kalas scored 11 a piece.

Next Saturday night the Alumni will play a Stanford Fraternity team in the Campbell Gym.—O. Kalas.

Church Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the Congregational church was held last week following a Fellowship supper.

The resignation of Mr. Wm. Peterson as temporary pastor was accepted. Mr. Peterson was called to Seattle before Christmas and circumstances have developed that require him to remain.

Officers for the year were chosen as follows, deacon, H. V. Archibald; trustee, H. C. Hutton; clerk, Mrs. Lilie F. Shaw; treasurer, R. G. Archibald; deaconesses, Mrs. H. S. Young; Mrs. Edith Turner, Mrs. R. Y. Maxon; music committee, Dr. W. I. Merrill, Mrs. H. S. Young, F. H. Cutting; Sunday School Superintendent, Irving Townsend; head usher, Stephen Merrill.

Wills and Trust

Bankers, banks and banking held the boards at the Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday. Roy Archibald was chairman, the trust company and its operation was the topic which was very clearly pictured by Mr. J. E. Drew of the American Trust Company of San Francisco. He urged all to make their wills and make them in the simplest form.

Roy decided that judges were superfluous in drawing for the attendance prize and managed the stunt himself. Chauncy Whitman, the newly wed, drew the pyrex pie plate and pie knife.

Helen Stray and Lois Rice were cup bearers.

Even if the entire Italian Cabinet resigns he can turn around and hire himself again.

Pretty soon the real world's champion will be the fellow who can keep the longest from trying to be some kind of a world's champion.

CAMPBELL ALUMNI DEFEAT S. F. CARDINALS

By Robert Feathers

The Campbell Alumni basketball team came out of a three week's lay off with a bang and defeated the San Francisco Cardinal Club team, 47 to 16, in the Campbell gym Saturday night. Too much Eddleman was the cause of the large score run up by the "Camels." He shot baskets from every angle of the floor and had the Cardinal guards running round in a trance. Kalas and C. Nelson made 10 and 11 points respectively. Milton Nelson twisted his knee; this put him out of the game.

Campbell led at half-time 23 to 9. In the second period, however, their offense could not be stopped and they ran up the points in short order. Reed and Shelley, Alumni guards, were responsible for holding the Cardinals to such a small score. Many times the Cardinals brought the ball down to their basket only to lose it by the work of the Campbell guards.

The lay-off seemed to help the Alumni; and from now on they seem to promise an exhibition of good basket-ball. No game has been secured for next Saturday but Jan. 22, they will play the San Jose Alumni in the San Jose High School gym. The Alumni have secured a two-game series with the San Jose Golds to be played on February 5 and 9. The Camels would appreciate seeing a big crowd of Campbell fans at these games.

Last Saturday night, as a preliminary, the Campbell High 130 lb. team defeated the San Jose State Teachers College Bull-dogs 1 to 12. Clouser and Lyons showed up well for Campbell. The local 130's have been winning the majority of their games this year and will make a strong bid for P. A. L. honors.

Campbell vs. Palo Alto

The A. and B. class teams of Campbell, play the A. and B. class teams of Palo Alto, on the latter court Friday, January 14.

The Unlimited team contains all new men, but all good ones. For the last few years Campbell has had a fine Unlimited team. They lost just one game last year which kept them from being champions.

The 130's have a fine line-up, although several are new on the team. They hope to break the ill luck which in the past shadowed the 130's.

Both teams will put up a hard fight, but they need the support of the students. These two teams would appreciate a big crowd of Campbell rooters at all the games.

The Campbell A. and B. class teams also play San Mateo A. and B. class teams at Campbell Tuesday, Jan. 18th at 7:45 p. m. The San Mateo team is a fine team and they promise another fine game.—John Hiatt.

SPANISH IDEAS

If any one is thinking of taking a trip to Spain or Mexico, and if you want to get a glimpse of what it is like, come to the Spanish II Class of Campbell High.

The Spanish Language is supposed to be one of the easiest languages to learn, and to speak; but to get the verbs in right, (to one who is familiar with no other language than English) takes patience and hard studying.

The class is now taking up the story Zaraguetta. This is an interesting two act play.

With two years of Spanish one would be able to travel alone, very comfortably in Mexico, without need of an interpreter.—Kenneth Downing.

PRIZES GIVEN FOR ESSAYS

To find the twenty most significant dates and landmarks in Santa Clara County is the object of the Second Annual Fiesta and Sesquicentennial Committee in organizing the Historical Contest that started January 1st and ends at midnight, January 21st.

All residents of any age in the county have been urged to write essays of five hundred words or less on why and how the twenty dates or landmarks selected by them are the most significant in their estimation in the history of the county.

First prize of $20.00 will be given to the person, who in the opinion of the judges writes the best paper. Second prize of $10.00 will be given to the one writing the second best, and third, prize of $5.00 will be given to the one writing the third best.

County libraries, school libraries, old books in the homes of pioneers, and the memories of old settlers or their descendants are the reference places that will furnish suitable material for the writing of the essay.

These dates will be used during the celebration as themes for different events, for various floats, and for the other purposes. They will receive wide publicity and the individual furnishing the same will be given real appreciation, as well as the prize, by the Executive Committee.

School children, school teachers, old residents, pioneers and old settlers should take advantage of this contest and win a prize. Citizens should demonstrate their civic spirit in this manner and assist those interested in bringing to the foreground the important facts in this county so replete with history.

GIRL' PENINSULA ATHLETIC MEETING

The G. P. A. L. held their meeting in South San Francisco Monday afternoon at four thirty o'clock. The committees appointed reported no further changes in basket ball or baseball.

The point was stressed that our G. P. A. L. organization was the best in California, Miss Winifred Van Hagen, Assistant State Superintendent of Physical Education, in complimenting our G. P. A. L. made the statement that our league was of more benefit than any other organization of this kind.

Experiments for swimming events will be tried in the spring. Due to the fact that only a few schools have tanks; swimming has not yet been fully developed as one of our sports.

More schools are going out for track than even before. Copies of the constitution are being typed in booklet form for the girls that are interested in athletics. A song composed by Miss Brown of Santa Clara High will be included.

With Miss O'Neil from San Jose High as president, Miss Brown from Santa Clara High, vice president, Miss Northrup from Burlingame, secretary, and Miss Howes of Campbell, treasurer, the league is bound to go ahead.

Emblems were awarded for girls winning 100 points, and chevrons were awarded to girls winning 100 additional points. At the next meeting, which will be held in Redwood City, many girls from Campbell will receive G. P. A. L. emblems.

All the girls who have won G. P. A. L. emblems have formed a club to further friendship among the girls of different schools.—Julia Ruscigno.

CAMP FIRE SPARKS

"Busy as a Camp Fire Girl" would be a good epithet for a very busy person. Our calendar for this month is just covered with things for us to do.

Every Wednesday noon the Kiwanis Club holds its weekly meeting and luncheon. The appetites of the men keep two capable cooks more than busy, and so each Wednesday two Camp Fire Girls are helping with the serving to provide quick service.

The Chamber of Commerce is to have its annual banquet in the Cafeteria of the Campbell Grammar School, Friday night, Jan. 14. The two Camp Fire groups of the high school, the Unaliki and Cherokee groups, will serve the banquet and aid in preparing the meal besides making attractive place cards and having charge of the decorating. The work will be divided equally between the two groups as also will their share of the proceeds.—Miriam Blaine.

MAN OF 60 HELPED BY SIMPLE MIXTURE

"After taking Adlerika I feel better than for years. At my age (60) it is ideal—so different from other medicines." (signed) W. W. Carter. Adlerika is a simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., which removes GAS in ten minutes and often brings surprising relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Brings out old waste-matter you never thought chronic constipation. Orchard City was in your system. Excellent for Drug Co.

Worthy Objective

Through the untiring efforts of the Women's clubs and organizations Solano County has realized a cherished plan and on Tuesday, Dec. 7, the "children's ward" of the County Hospital was constructed at a cost of $17,000.

It is one of the goals of the Federated clubs to have children's and maternity wards in all the county hospitals where people can pay a reasonable price for hospital service. Privately owned hospitals are almost prohibitive for many, who still do not need charity service.

The clubs of this county are striving toward that same goal.

The cherry crop, in the Yucaipa valley, brought satisfactory returns, and the total production of the valley for the past season ran well over $1,000,000.

From a farmers' institute to a systematic study of fundamentals is the change made by the University of California in its annual short course for fruit growers at the university farm, Davis.

Gordon Simmonds, horticultural inspector Merced county, recently condemned 300,000 strawberry plants grown by a Livingston nursery when inspection showed a big percentage of the plants infested with nematodes.

Rev. Geo. Marsh Tells of Near East

The School of Religion,
54, St. Alexander Street,
Paleon Phaleron,
(Athens) Greece.
November 18, 1926.

Dear Friends:

Now that we are well started on the work of the new school year, I must tell you of our wonderful three months in Constantinople, Bulgaria and Salonica.

We left here on the tenth of June, and never can we forget that lovely sail of twenty four hours through the Aegean, the Hellespont, and the Sea of Marmora. As we started out of the crowded port of Piraeus, about two o'clock in the afternoon, the sea was like glass. The blue of the waters, and the clear outline of the mountainous shore line, and of all the mountainous, rocky islands was just what we had long read and felt of the wonderful Aegean with its crowding memories of myth and glorious history.

To us, the most fascinating sight on the Greek shore was the promontory of Sunium, the easternmost point of Attica, crowned with the beautiful ruin of an old temple. We had visited it at Christmas time, and nothing which we have seen in Greece has more completely taken our hearts, as it stands high above the sea, on a point stretching so far out into the ocean that it is almost surrounded by water. It is built of choice marble, and its thirteen standing columns with their high temple base overlooking mountains and islands, seem to symbolize all of Greece with its physical beauty and its eager search for truth and for God.

When night came with its calm and warmth and the radiant brilliance of the stars, it seemed impossible to go below to sleep, and I spent the night rolled up in blankets on deck, watching the stars, and thinking of all the history which had been making in these waters for far more than the three thousand years of which we have somewhat definite information.

The great joy of the Sea of Marmora was that we were once more in the region of fields which are green all summer. We feasted our eyes on the verdure and the many villages all the way along. We were also deeply interested in the monuments of Gallipoli, recalling one of the most terrible campaigns of the war, and we wondered again how much of the lesson of the war the world is going to take to heart.

At last Constantinople with its mosques and their clusters of minarets, and its palaces and great barracks, grew into view against the lovely greenness of the hills, and we knew why the world had fought for its possession for fifteen hundred years. It took our breath, as we realized for ourselves that it is indeed one of the queen cities of the world. Such a setting of sea and hill and verdure.

Miss Harley of the American School for Girls at Scutari, met us at the wharf, got us quickly through the customs, and up to the school, with its superb site on a high hill overlooking the whole city and especially Stamboul, the oldest and most interesting part of Constantinople. We had three glorious weeks here, and they gave us their guest room during all of that time, with its incomparable outlook into the bay and the city. We were more and more impressed every day that we were there with the intellectual and spiritual qualities of leadership in the rare head of the School Miss Mary E. Kinnoy, qualities also possessed in an unusual degree by her large Faculty of Armenian, American, English, Scotch and Swiss teachers. We also greatly enjoyed our acquaintance with Mr. Alexanian, the business manager of the School. We were struck with the many testimonies which we heard and saw to the fine Christian character and thorough training for the highest kind of living which characterize the graduates of this School.

Saturday, we saw a delightful play very well given by the seventeen Armenian girls of the graduating class. Sunday I discharged my responsibility in Commencement in delivering the Baccalaureate Sermon, and was free to enjoy the rest of the time. Tuesday was Commencement Day, when the graduates did themselves and their teachers great credit with their literary and musical contributions. Admiral Bristol, the American representative at Constantinople, spoke, as he did at each Commencement of the week, and added very much by his friendly, personal interest in each of the American Schools. Few things in the summer's experience took hold of me like Commencement at Robert College. I suppose it was because I visited it when I was six years old, and had been peculiarly interested in reading about it ever since. As we rode the half mile up the steep winding road from the seashore to the College buildings and came out upon that glorious view up and down the Bosphorus we found it was all which we had dreamed of, the two great towers of ancient defense in the foreground and the green shores of the Bosphorus stretching for miles below and above, with much of the city visible on the right. The buildings are substantial, but very plain for an institution which has done as much to shape the life of nations as has any college in the world.

We first spent a delightful and informing hour at tea on the lawn of Prof. and Mrs. Huntington. Prof. Huntington was acting president of the College during the absence of Dr. Gates in America. Here we met Admiral and Mrs. Bristol, members of the Robert College Faculty, and the heads of the four other American Schools of higher education in Constantinople, and other interesting people. As we filed into the College chapel for the Commencement Exercises, along with some 700 other people, to the notes of the great pipe organ, splendidly played by Prof. Estes, I was thrilled as by few things since leaving America. As in the case in several other American schools in the Near East, here were Turks, Armenians, Greeks, Persian, Bulgarians, Albanians, French, Germans, Swiss, Scotch and Americans,—and yet other nationalities, all studying together in the atmosphere of liberal, modern, democratic, and truly Christian institution, getting the best culture of mind and heart and soul which Christian civilization can give. I should judge that there were as many nationalities represented in the visiting audience as in the student body.

The main address of the day was delivered by Prof. Morgan, head of the Department of Agriculture in Columbia University, and was on the subject "Agriculture in Turkey." It impressed me as a most timely theme, well handled. But that part of the Program which moved me most deeply was the brief closing address and prayer by Prof. Huntington, with its warm, personal, Christian message. How vastly significant it is to have such a spirit dominating in the institutions which are playing so important a part in training leaders for the Near East. There were thirteen graduates from the College, seven of them Turks, nearly one third of the total number of Turks graduated from Robert College in the sixty three years of its existence.

I was greatly interested to learn that the College established a year ago a Department of Agriculture. In this connection I recall the Farm School of Salonica which has done excellent work for a quarter of a century, and the Department of Domestic Science recently established at the American School for Girls at Scutari, Constantinople. Putting together these and other facts which came to my knowledge this summer, I believe that one of the most important Next Steps in many of our missionary institutions in the Near East will be the addition of instruction which will help to meet the crying needs of the countries of this part of the world for better agriculture, better industrial and business methods, better sanitation, and better care of the home. I am thinking of the splendid work of such schools as Hampton Institute and Tuskegee.

The Commencement of the Guez Tepe High School for Boys took place before our arrival, but we spent a most informing and inspiring twenty four hours there in the good fellowship of Dr. and Mrs. McNaughton who have been doing a noble work for the boys of the Turkish Empire for a whole generation.

The first solid carload of avocados to leave Southern California, containing 2184 boxes of "Calavos" and valued at $12,000, was shipped from Los Angeles December 17. It was billed to Chicago.

The winter crop of lettuce in most sections of the state is practically all harvested with the exception of that of the Imperial valley, according to a report of the California Co-operative Crop reporting service, dated December 20.

A survey of agricultural industries in the Yucaipa valley for the season just closed indicates that poultry is crowding apples in the struggle for first place. The 1926 apple crop, the largest for several years, was valued at about $500,000.

A maize root cutter, which has been invented by E. J. Stirnman of the division of agricultural engineering and J. P. Conrad of the agronomy division of the University of California, gives promise of revolutionizing the harvest of milo maize and grains of similar nature, according to announcements.

E. H. Jones, Lindsay, government meteorologist in charge of the San Joaquin valley frost warning service, has perfected his arrangements from Sanger to Edison, the two extremes of the Central California citrus district. Stations have been established from which growers will be warned of probable low temperatures by telephone.
